

The great national holiday which comes this week promises to be very generally observed. The Columbian celebration has doubtless given an impetus to the Nation, and from one end of the land to the other the people will know that America has her independence. An occasional explosion and colored light has given a sign of impatience for the day to dawn, and various small boys have been rehearsing with toy pistols to make sure that when the Fourth does come he will not have to waste any time, powder or caps perfecting himself in the use of the noise maker. Tuesday will be a great day for excursions and pionics. There are numerous public gatherings and many private parties. The races will occupy the society people who are yet in town, and several drag parties are on the tapis. The Coaching Club will give a drive to the races. Family reunions are planned and those who have not some social diversion on that day will be few. As a general holiday, every one will take advantage of it.
